

ECONOMICS (ECN)

---

ECN 200 Basic Principles of Economics (3 Credits)

This course provides an introduction to basic core concepts of microeconomics and macroeconomics. The emphasis is on the theories and applications of economics. This includes supply-demand analysis; theories of firm; economic functions of household, business, and government; national income accounting; and international trade. This course is meant for non-business students.

ECN 210 Economics (3 Credits)

Contact the department for specific course information

ECN 211 Principles of Microeconomics (3 Credits)

Introduction to microeconomic principles relative to an economic system including supply and demand analysis; types of business organizations; theories of the firm and market models; resource allocation; and factorial distribution.

ECN 211H Honors Principles of Microeconomics (3 Credits)

Introduction to microeconomic principles relative to an economic system including supply and demand analysis; types of business organizations; theories of the firm and market models; resource allocation; and factorial distribution.

ECN 212 Principles of Macroeconomics (3 Credits)

Introduction to macroeconomic principles relative to an economic system, including economic functions of households, business and government; national income accounting; business cycles; monetary and fiscal institutions and policy as they apply to national economic growth, stabilization goals, and international trade.

ECN 212H Honors Principles of Macroeconomics (3 Credits)

Introduction to macroeconomic principles relative to an economic system, including economic functions of households, business and government; national income accounting; business cycles; monetary and fiscal institutions and policy as they apply to national economic growth, stabilization goals, and international trade.