

MINOR IN CYBERPSYCHOLOGY

The minor in CyberPsychology is designed for students interested in advanced exploration of the interaction between digital technology and human behavior. Through a concentrated focus on fundamental psychological theory, research application, and survey of introductory cyberpsychological principles, this minor will prepare students for advanced cyberpsychological study at the graduate level.

Curriculum

| Course | Title | Credits |
|----------------------|--------------------------------------|-----------|
| First Year | | |
| Fall | | |
| PSY 210 | Introduction to Psychology | 3 |
| Credits | | 3 |
| Spring | | |
| PSY 211 | Basic Principles of Psychology | 3 |
| Credits | | 3 |
| Second Year | | |
| Fall | | |
| PSY 270 | Psychological Statistics | 3 |
| Credits | | 3 |
| Spring | | |
| PSY 360 | Experimental Psychology | 3 |
| Credits | | 3 |
| Third Year | | |
| Fall | | |
| PSY 370 | Principles of Cyberpsychology | 3 |
| Credits | | 3 |
| Spring | | |
| PSY 373 | History & Systems of Cyberpsychology | 3 |
| Credits | | 3 |
| Total Credits | | 18 |

Months to completion: Dependent on when student takes courses

 PSY 210, PSY 211, PSY 270 and PSY 360 must be taken consecutively in sequence, but PSY 370 and PSY 373 can be taken at any time after completing PSY 360 on concurrent with.